Presentation

The following guidelines are provided for informational purposes only and can be modified.

The majority of the courses are taught in French; therefore, a good level of French is recommended.

Objectives

- The LLCER "CITIES" Master's degree offers a unique course based on disciplinary lectures aiming at strengthening linguistics and foreign literature and civilisation (in English, Spanish or Chinese) and supported by classes taught by working professionals of IT and computer science, and of communication. These professional classes aim at developing students' skills in scientific and cultural outreach.
- Professional skills' development is also guaranteed by the methodological focus on theory and practice with two internships: 6 weeks in the 1st year and 8 weeks in the 2nd year.
- In addition to the lectures and classes, students must attend to scientific or cultural demonstrations (symposia, conferences or seminars) in order to prepare the redaction and presentation of a project depending on their subprogram: an essay of research for the 'Research' specialisation, and a cultural project for the 'Event Management' specialisation.
- This degree is aimed at students wishing to pursue a career in education and research, but also students interested in cultural and event management.
